“ Once again, I wish to thank you for your due diligence as you handled the minefield that surrounded our matter. You and your company do excellent work and we are very grateful for your services. I would also add that everyone who works with you and who has been in contact with me have been immensely helpful and courteous at all times. Please make sure that our sincere thanks are passed along the line. ”

Easy To Use Will Service

For many of us, making a will is something we know we should do but never quite get around to. Of course, it's important not to put it off.

We offer a no obligation free Will review meeting.

With expert knowledge in all areas of Wills, our friendly advisors will create a Will that's right for you and your family. They'll put you at ease and explain everything clearly using plain English. For confidential, expert advice call us today on 01905 721600 and see how we can help you.

"I was impressed by the quiet and friendly efficiency of your office and the fact that someone was always available by phone, email or in person to talk over any issue. These were always explained clearly, with little jargon and with great sensitivity. It is quite an art to retain the sense of 'family solicitor' with all the expertise and resources of a major company, but PW have achieved this. Thank you again."

"A huge thanks for all your help and support in sorting our lives out. Everything has gone smoothly due to your professionalism at all stages We are grateful."

Later Life Wills

When you have worked hard and want to make sure that the inheritance you leave behind protects the next generations of your family as you would wish.

We can give you peace of mind that your affairs are in order.

- Avoid unnecessary inheritance tax
- Equalise gifts already made from the "bank of mum and dad".
- Provide for your children and grandchildren
- Add care home fee protection
- Distribute sentimental items

Did you know?

Godparents and family members have no automatic right to bring up children under 18 years of age. Appointing a guardian in your Will makes your wishes clear should both parents die.

Business Owners

When booking a free Will review meeting please let us know if you own a business. We can then ensure that you see one of our Business Will specialists.

They will look at whether there are any steps you should take to make sure your business is able to continue if you become incapacitated or die unexpectedly.

Business Wills make sure that your interest in the business is passed on following your wishes and without unnecessary tax.

Separation and Divorce

If you separate from your partner and have not finalised the divorce or dissolved your civil partnership, then your Will still stands and that includes all gifts to your spouse or civil partner. If you want your children or friends to benefit, then it is important to review the Will when you become separated.

It is also beneficial to review your Will once the divorce or dissolution is finalised to ensure your wishes will be met.

This is particularly important if you had children together or from a previous relationship.

Did you know?

Unmarried couples do not have an automatic right against their partner's estate on death and if your partner dies without a Will or without leaving provision for you in a Will then it can be difficult to make a claim against their estate.

Married couples assume that they will inherit everything from their spouse even if there is no Will and this may not be the case.

Additional Trust Protection

This is an optional extra to consider when discussing your Will that can help in some situations. It can give you some control over how the inheritance you leave is used after you have died.

- Care Home Fee Protection
- Protect your children's inheritance from your partner meeting someone else.
- Keep inheritance in your family, not lose it through divorce or bankruptcy
- Manage the inheritance of someone vulnerable or disabled
- Enable continued living in your home for a specified period, before passing under your Will

Whilst Trust Funds may sound complicated they may be the right solution for you and we will ensure everything is explained clearly.

Fixed Prices and peace of mind service

We offer a free Will review and tailor the Will to your particular situation. If you decide to go ahead, we offer clear fixed prices with no hidden costs.
